Product Templates in the Site Editor

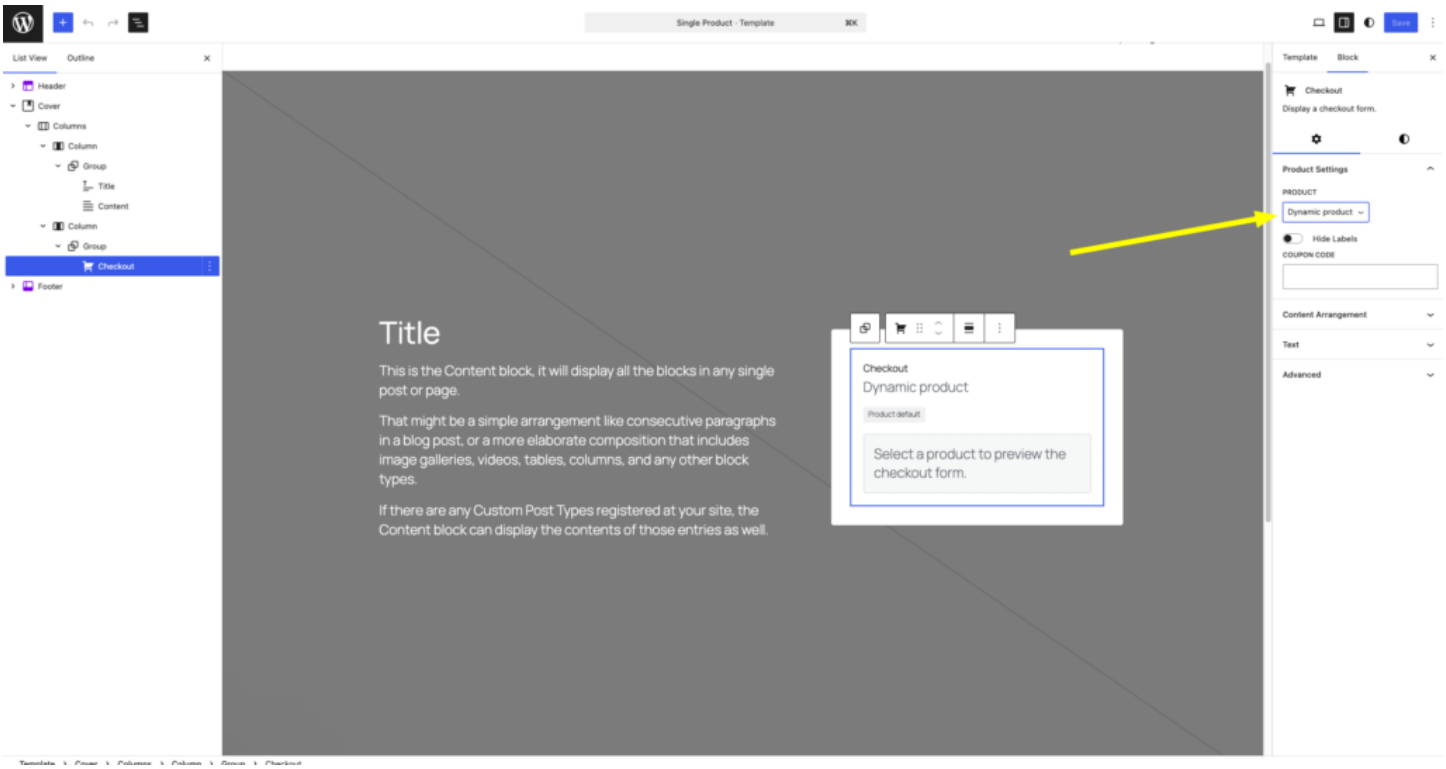

Products · https://publishpress.com/knowledge-base/customize-product-template/

If you are using block themes, PublishPress Cart has built-in product template. You can access the template on Appearance > Editor > Templates

You can make changes to the template here and it will automatically apply to all products from PublishPress Cart.

When editing the template, make sure the Checkout block is set to Dynamic Product so it automatically adapts to each product. If you select a specific product instead, that product's checkout will appear for all products

This is the Content block, it will display all the blocks in any single post or page.
That might be a simple arrangement like consecutive paragraphs in a blog post, or a more elaborate composition that includes image galleries, videos, tables, columns, and any other block types.
If there are any Custom Post Types registered at your site, the Content block can display the contents of those entries as well.
